1. Client Overview

Viral Ideas Marketing is a video content engine for marketing teams that need high-performing video at scale, without freelancer chaos or in-house overhead. Founded 2015. 83-person fully-remote production team. 100,000+ videos edited. Past clients include McKesson, P&G, Self Financial, eBay, Sotheby's, Janssen, Johnson & Johnson, and Chevrolet.

Snapshot

Field	Detail
Website	viralideamarketing.com
Founded	2015
Team	83 FTE, fully remote
Track record	100,000+ videos edited
Revenue last year	$1.2M
Revenue pacing	$2.4M
12-month goal	$5M ARR
24-month goal	$10M ARR
Average deal size	$1,500–$5,000/mo retainer
LTV	~$12K
Sales cycle	~20 days first touch to close
First-meeting close rate	~20% (target 30%+)
Target CAC	$400 (currently $800–$1,000)
Geography	US first, Canada second (no international)
Lead volume target	175–200 appointments/month

What Viral sells

- Content Engine — ongoing retainer at 10, 20 or 40 editing hours per week. Roughly 50% of revenue.
- Project work — one-off campaigns, content libraries, repurposing, event recaps. The other ~50% (Dave: “I wish they would all be subscriptions, but they're not”).
- Limited remote / virtual production — small slice when fresh footage is needed.
- Free lead magnet — Video Grader at video-grader.viralideamarketing.com + 15-minute strategist walkthrough.

Land-and-expand is the documented motion. Recent examples from the call: 2 projects at $800 → $2,500/mo retainer. $100 starter project → largest client. Project-based clients also stay sticky as ongoing project relationships even when they don't convert to retainers.

Three problems Viral solves (Dave's framing)

- 1. Creative velocity bottleneck. Lots of footage, can't get it edited fast enough.

- 2. Don't know what to make. Lost in the AI sauce. Need a partner to figure out the creative direction.
- 3. In-house team strained. Marketing department of 1–2 people; need to strategically outsource one function.

Sales org

Role	Person	Function
CEO + S&M; Director	Dave Feinman	Owner, dual-seat until lead flow stabilizes
Head of Marketing	Alejandra van Berkel	Brand + content; managing 2 video editors
Closer	Ryder	New business, ~20% close rate today
Account Manager	Jess	Existing accounts, expansion + renewal
Account Manager	Lui	Existing accounts, expansion + renewal, onboarding handoff
Appointment Setter	Alina	Reply triage, Dan-Martell sell-by-chat

2. UVP & Positioning

Primary UVP: “We build the content engine that lets marketing teams ship high-performing video at scale, without freelancer chaos or in-house overhead.”

Secondary UVP: “A reliable, scalable system to never stop producing videos that drive ROI.”

The real product is career insurance. Marketing leaders are not buying video. They are buying not-getting-blamed when content slips. Every messaging decision should reflect that.

Five differentiators

Differentiator	Why no competitor matches it
Volume AND quality, no tradeoff	Subscription editors do volume but not enterprise-grade quality. Agencies do quality but cannot ship 500 videos a month. Viral is built for both.
Strategic creative guidance, not order-taking	Most editors execute briefs. Viral brings hook strategy, platform-specific expertise, and performance thinking before the edit. Doctor Frame: symptom in, diagnosis out.
Built for scale from day one	Structured pods, managing editors, QA checkpoints. The system handles 5 → 500 videos a month without breaking.
System over talent	Trained team, standardized processes. A single editor leaving never blows up an engagement.
Speed without sacrificing quality	Same-day first drafts. Slack reply within an hour on business days. Humans + AI, with humans in control of judgment.

Three competitor categories

Category	Examples	Where Viral wins
Subscription editing services	Design Pickle, BeCreatives	B2B sophistication, strategic creative input
Traditional video production agencies	Generic regional shops	Speed, predictability, built-for-volume
Freelance editor marketplaces	Upwork, Fiverr, individual freelancers	Reliability; system survives any one editor leaving

Voice rules (from 2026 Brand Book)

- Calm and confident. Never urgent or hype-driven.
- Direct. Lead with the point.
- Specific: “respond within one hour” beats “responsive.”
- “You” over “we.” Active voice always.
- Grade 8–10 reading level.

Banned phrases

Hype: revolutionary, game-changing, disruptive, world-class, best-in-class, cutting-edge. Aggressive: crush, dominate, 10x, skyrocket. Generic agency speak: synergy, holistic, full-funnel, leverage (verb). Vague: “we care about your brand,” “authentic storytelling,” “elevate your brand.” Self-important: guru, ninja, rockstar, white-glove, bespoke.

3. Social Proof & Case Studies

Viral has the strongest case study library in healthcare and a deep enterprise consumer track record. Anchors below mapped to the three priority verticals plus enterprise-wide credibility.

Vertical	Anchor proof
#1 Healthcare / Pharma	McKesson (Ontada subsidiary), Janssen, Johnson & Johnson, Cortechs.ai (imaging), Liberty Urgent Care, Ultrasound.ai, SI Bone (med device), Inbody (med device, training & development team)
#2 Marketing & PR Agencies	Clever Digital Marketing (Canada, ~$10M, ~80 FTE, performance — largest customer), Pareto Legal (PPC), B Marketing
#3 Financial / Fintech	Self Financial ($100M+), Asset Map (financial advisor SaaS, client since 2017), Insight Cloud, Gainbridge (Group 1001 ~$160B AUM)
Enterprise consumer (cross-vertical credibility)	eBay, Procter & Gamble, Sotheby's, Chevrolet, Logitech

Voice-of-customer quotes

"I've been through so many editors. Will be back."

"Working with David and his team was effortless and great. The communication and end product were sublime."

"Your people are Johnny on the spot. I send a message, I get a message back in an hour."

"I sent them a brief and got back exactly what I wanted."

"I could describe the vision, but they were the ones who operationalized it and executed it beautifully."

"Their pricing was fair, their timelines were reliable, and above all, I felt like I could genuinely trust them."

Pattern: clients praise the experience, communication, and reliability — not the editing itself. That is the real product. Outbound should reflect it.

Gap to close before campaign 1: 2–3 specific outcome metrics per priority vertical (e.g., "produced X edits/month for Y," "cut turnaround from Z days to A days"). Action item assigned to Dave on the call.

4. Target Verticals — Ranked

Source: 2026-04-29 onboarding call. Dave: “1, 2, 3 is healthcare, marketing agencies, financial fintech type clients.” Law firms dropped from scope. SaaS and ecommerce moved to wave 2.

Order is fixed. We crush #1 first, layer in #2, then #3. We do not hedge across all three at launch — per Matteo on the call: “We start with one, we nail that one, then we move to the others.”

#1 — Healthcare & Pharma (PRIORITY)

Sub-segments (named on call)	Pharma manufacturers · biotech · health tech · med device · pharma divisions of larger conglomerates · clinics · urgent care centers
EXCLUDED	Hospitals (Zach: “I don’t think we have hospitals”)
Company size	$1M+ revenue minimum. No upper bound — even billion-dollar conglomerates work because we tap into smaller divisions (Dave: “we get the scraps the larger agencies don’t want”). Headcount irrelevant.
Buyer titles	VP Marketing · Sr Director of Brand · Head of Content · Brand Lead · Sr Business Director · Sr Manager Product Management · Triggered Education · Marketing/Creative/Channel Strategy · Motion Graphics & Video Production Specialist · Training & Development Manager (Inbody example). Below $5M revenue: Founder/Owner/CEO. Above: marketing manager / director.
NEVER target	Finance, Accounting (always). Hospitals (always). McKesson- or J&J-level CEOs (Dave: “they would laugh, it would be a waste of their time”).
Sometimes target	HR (training/dev content), C-suite (only at sub-$5M companies)
Pain point	Med-legal-regulatory review eats velocity. In-house teams cannot keep up with HCP and patient content volume. Missing a deadline before a product launch is a career-risk event.
Anchor proof to cite	McKesson (Ontada), Janssen, J&J, Cortechs.ai (imaging), Liberty Urgent Care, Ultrasound.ai, SI Bone (med device), Inbody
Why this vertical first	Largest deal sizes, longest LTV, strongest case study library (the call: “ the most successful long-term financial clients are healthcare clients ”). Healthcare in the US has “a lot of money.” If outbound works in pharma in 60 days, the rest of the strategy compounds.
Channel signal source	Trade shows. Healthcare buyers go to expos, congresses, NSC-style events. Cortech AI and Inbody both attend trade shows. McKesson is at a trade show right now (per call).

#2 — Marketing & PR Agencies

Critical refinement	NOT full-service agencies. Target agencies that do one thing really well and need to scale. Performance, PPC, paid social, video specialists. Zach: “they don’t just need one video, they need a thousand a week.”
Avoid	Full-service agencies (B Marketing-style — do everything from billboards to videos). They outsource everything in fragments and rarely buy a video engine.
Why this vertical	One-to-many leverage. Zach: “you land one of those as a client, they have 5 to 500 clients of their own.” Easiest to close (Dave). But also “easy come, easy go” — here one day, gone the next, so don’t lead the program with them.
Company size	$5M–$50M revenue. 30–150 FTE.
Buyer titles	CEO · Founder · COO · Head of Production

Champions (corp-card holders)	Marketing Manager · CMO · Director of Marketing · Head of Content · Social Media Marketing Director · Social Media Manager · Brand Manager · Head of Video / Videographer (can run problems up the chain)
The Logitech rule (Dave's words)	"Find someone with a corp card who can spend a couple thousand a month without approval. They eventually build the case to senior leadership for a vendor relationship."
NEVER target	Brand ambassadors (no pull, can't push up the chain). Executive Assistants (no problem to solve, no strategy).
Pain point	Editing is the chokepoint on their delivery. They need a partner that disappears behind their brand. One bad video at the wrong moment can cost a contract worth 10x what they pay an editing partner.
Anchor proof	Clever Digital Marketing (Canada, ~$10M, ~80 FTE, performance) — largest customer. Pareto Legal (PPC, performance specialty).
Channel signal source	Conferences: HubSpot Inbound. Followers of Alex Hormozi or Gary Vee.

#3 — Financial / Fintech

Definition (precise — from call)	NOT banks. Financial technology platforms that sell software to financial advisors / financial institutions. Zach: "not being like a bank, but more like fintech — financial technology."
Why this vertical	Highly regulated industry → sticky vendors. Dave: "they will keep you as a vendor for years and years and years." Asset Map has been a Viral client since 2017.
Anchor proof (named on call)	Self Financial · Asset Map · Insight Cloud · Gainbridge (subsidiary of Group 1001, ~$160B AUM)
Company size	$5M–$50M revenue typical. Growth-stage.
Buyer titles	Growth Marketer · Head of Marketing · Content Lead · Founder/CEO. Below $5M: Founder/CEO.
Pain point	Quarterly roadmap shifts content needs weekly. Need to fuel paid ads, organic, and investor-facing brand simultaneously. Cannot scale by hiring.
Position	Wave 3. Slow first sale, but 8+ year LTV when landed (Asset Map = since 2017). Best for the second sprint once healthcare and agencies are producing predictable lead flow.

Verticals dropped on the call

Vertical	Reason for dropping
Law firms	Two reasons: hard close (Zach: "really hard to ultimately close") and US legal risk on cold email (Zach: "they definitely do know the law"). Matteo: "they're dangerous for that." Pareto Legal stays as a case-study reference but the vertical is out.
SaaS startups	Zach: "the new startup doing this crazy new thing — here today, gone tomorrow." NFT/blockchain era a cautionary tale.
SaaS broadly	Matteo: "I would keep SAS off for now." Too generic, weaker reply rates than the three priority verticals.
Hospitals (within healthcare)	Zach: "I don't think we have hospitals." Stays excluded even within #1.
Ecommerce / DTC	Documented in the assessment but never raised on the call as a priority. Park as wave 2 once the top 3 produce.
HVAC / home services	Listed in the assessment summary line but appears nowhere else and was not discussed on call. Treat as a typo / superseded.

5. Personas — by priority vertical

Healthcare/Pharma personas

Persona	Brittany — Sr Marketing Director at a subsidiary
Title	Senior Marketing Director / Director of Marketing / Senior Business Director
Real example	Brittany Luxon, Sr. Business Director at Ontada (McKesson subsidiary)
Real fear	“McKesson doesn't blink at a $50K invoice. But if I choose the wrong partner and something goes wrong, that's my name on it.”
Outbound hook	Risk reduction. “We get the brief on the first try. We catch issues before they reach your desk.”
Persona	Sierra — Marketing Manager at structured corporate
Title	Marketing Manager / Senior Marketing Manager
Real example	Sierra Bowman (formerly Self Financial, $100M+ rev)
Budget	$5K–$10K/mo without major approvals
Real fear	“If this vendor makes me look bad to my leadership, I'm the one on the performance review. Not them.”
Outbound hook	Reliability + brand consistency. “Never wonder if your video is going to land on time again.”
Persona	Training & Development buyer (med device)
Title	Training & Development Manager
Real example	Inbody T&D Manager
Budget	Department training/comms budget
Outbound hook	Volume and consistency for HCP / training content. Never miss a launch milestone.

Marketing & PR Agency personas

Persona	Daniel — agency CEO / Head of Production
Title	CEO / Founder / Head of Production
Real example	Daniel Rahmon, CEO of Clever Digital Marketing (~$10M, ~80 FTE, performance)
Real fear	“My reputation with my clients is everything. One bad video at the wrong moment can cost me a contract worth 10x what I'm paying an editing service.”
Outbound hook	White-label trust. “An editing partner that plugs into your team and never embarrasses you in front of a client.”
Persona	Champion with corp card (the Logitech buyer)
Title	CMO / Director of Marketing / Marketing Manager / Head of Content / Social Media Director
Real example	Logitech corp-card holder paying ~$2K/mo with no approval needed; built case for senior leadership later
Budget	$2K–$5K/mo on a corp card with no approval ceiling
Outbound hook	Plug in and scale. “We slot into your existing brand, no learning curve, no contract minimum.”

Fintech personas

Persona	Adam — fintech founder, long-cycle buyer
Title	Founder / CEO
Real example	Adam Holt, Founder of Asset Map (Viral client since 2017)
Real fear	"We've built a strong product and a strong reputation. I don't want the content to be the thing that makes us look smaller than we are."
Outbound hook	Strategic partnership. "A team that gets B2B positioning and thinks about your growth long-term."
Persona	Lindsey — growth marketer, growth-stage fintech
Title	Growth Marketer / Head of Marketing / Content Lead
Real example	Lindsey McKone, Growth Marketer at Gainbridge (Group 1001, ~$160B AUM)
Outbound hook	Speed + scale. "Same-day first drafts. Scale up volume the moment a campaign is working."

6. Pain-to-Value Mapping

Pain	Value (Viral solution)	Outcome
Production output is unreliable. Freelancers ghost. Agency takes 2 weeks per video. In-house editor leaves and the team starts over.	Dedicated editors in a structured pod. Same-day first drafts. Slack reply within 1 hour business days. The system survives any one editor leaving.	Predictable monthly throughput. Marketing manager stops chasing vendors.
Volume and quality cannot coexist. One great video from an agency or 50 mediocre from a low-cost platform. Never 50 great videos consistently.	Structured pods, managing editors, QA checkpoints. Volume ramps from 5 → 500 without breaking.	Enterprise-grade quality at startup-grade speed and volume.
Marketing leaders carry personal career risk. When content slips, leadership blames the manager who chose the vendor. Buyers are buying career insurance, not video.	Vetted enterprise track record (J&J, McKesson, eBay). QA built in. Named editor + managing editor on every account. Brief-on-the-first-try workflow.	Marketing manager keeps their job. No surprise misses before exec review.
Quarterly KPIs miss when production falls apart. Wasted ad spend, inconsistent brand presence, marketing team managing 5 vendors instead of doing strategy.	One partner instead of five vendors. Platform-specific cuts produced in parallel. Performance feedback loop on which hooks land.	Hit ad-creative refresh cadence. Reclaim 8–12 hours a week of vendor management.
Status quo costs more than they realize. Freelancer at $30/hr is $0 when they ghost, $5K in damage when launch slips. In-house: $80–$120K loaded for one editor.	Production system at $1,500–$5,000/mo for a whole pod. No hiring overhead, no PTO gaps, no single point of failure.	Replace one in-house editor with a full pod for less than the salary cost.

7. Signals, Triggers & Timing

“The list is the message.” Signals win the open. Below are the triggers Viral has actually closed against, plus call-confirmed event sources.

Hiring signals (strongest single category)

- New CMO, VP Marketing, or Head of Content (90-day window) — incoming leaders reset the content stack.
- Open role: Video Editor, Content Producer, Social Media Manager — production bottleneck already admitted.
- Open role: Paid Social Manager / Performance Marketer — paid social runs on creative volume.
- Open role: Freelance / Contract Video Editor — active confession of an unsolved gap.
- Healthcare-specific: Training & Development Manager hire (Inbody pattern).

Funding & growth signals

- Series A–C funding round (last 90 days) — budget unlocked.
- Headcount or revenue growth (Crunchbase, LinkedIn) — marketing always lags ops.
- M&A or geographic expansion — multi-region content variants needed.

Product & content signals

- New product launch — demo videos, sales enablement, ad creative needed in weeks.
- New podcast / webinar series / YouTube channel — long-form raw material we repurpose.
- Increased ad spend on Meta or LinkedIn (visible in ad libraries) — running through creative faster than they can produce.

Vertical-specific signals (call-confirmed)

- Healthcare: FDA approval, clinical trial milestone, new indication launch, partnership with HCP networks. Trade shows: NSC, BIO International, MM+M Awards, healthcare expos. McKesson currently at a trade show; Cortech AI and Inbody attend regularly.
- Agencies: Announced new client win (especially video-heavy). New office or service line. Conferences: HubSpot Inbound. Influencer signal: followers of Alex Hormozi or Gary Vee.
- Fintech: New regulation cycle (advisor compliance updates). New product release (web-based platform, app). Funding round.

Negative signals — do NOT contact

- Hospitals (excluded inside healthcare).
- DIY creators just starting out (no content pipeline).
- Budget negotiators benchmarking against $5/hr Fiverr.
- Wedding videographers, music videos, bar/bat mitzvah, hype-driven startup-bro founders, political campaigns, gambling.
- Micromanagers (need to approve every 10-second cut).
- Full-service agencies (Daniel-pattern is specialty; B Marketing-pattern is not the buyer).
- Brand ambassadors, executive assistants — no pull, no problem to solve.

- Finance and accounting roles — never the buyer.

8. Cold Email Messaging Angles — by vertical, in order

Every email passes voice rules. Subject lines lowercase, max 3 words, person/company names capitalized.

#1 Healthcare / Pharma

- Persona: Brittany (Sr Director at subsidiary) and Sierra (Marketing Manager).
- Hook: med-legal review eats velocity; in-house can't keep up with HCP and patient content; missing a launch deadline is career-risk.
- Value lead: "We get the brief on the first try. We catch issues before they reach your desk."
- Proof to cite: J&J, McKesson (Ontada), Janssen, Cortechs.ai, Inbody.
- Subject direction: content engine · video pipeline · review cycles
- Trigger overlay: trade show attendance / clinical trial milestone / new indication.

#2 Marketing & PR Agencies

- Persona: Daniel (specialty agency CEO) + the Logitech-style corp-card holder.
- Hook: editing chokepoint hurts client delivery; one bad video costs a contract worth 10x what you pay an editing partner.
- Value lead: "An editing partner that plugs into your team and never embarrasses you in front of a client."
- Proof to cite: Clever Digital Marketing (Canada, ~$10M, performance — largest customer).
- Subject direction: white label · delivery layer · client safety
- Trigger overlay: agency announced a new video-heavy client win in last 30 days.

#3 Financial / Fintech

- Persona: Adam (founder, long-cycle) + Lindsey (growth marketer at scale-stage).
- Hook: premium product, content doesn't match the reputation; quarterly roadmap shifts content needs weekly; can't scale by hiring.
- Value lead: "A team that gets B2B positioning and thinks about your growth long-term."
- Proof to cite: Self Financial ($100M+), Asset Map (since 2017), Insight Cloud, Gainbridge.
- Subject direction: content system · brand fit · positioning
- Trigger overlay: new product release / regulator update / funding round.

Email 1 structure (lead-magnet thread)

- Hook paragraph: name a vertical-specific pain in their words.
- Social proof paragraph: drop one named logo from the same vertical.
- Audit offer paragraph (own paragraph): Video Grader + 15-minute walkthrough.
- CTA paragraph: one yes/no question. No double-CTA.

60–80 words. No em dashes. No exclamation marks. No spam words. No bracket placeholders. Signature handled by EmailBison's system variable.

Email 2 (service offer thread)

- New thread, same lead, ~7 days later. Pivot from audit to retainer.
- Hook: name the symptom they probably have (e.g., 'creative refresh slipping into next sprint').
- Body: production-engine reframe (system over talent).
- CTA: 15-minute call to walk through how a pod plugs into their existing setup.

Lead magnet rules (call-decided)

- Use: Video Grader at video-grader.viralideamarketing.com + 15-minute strategist walkthrough. Zach's reverse use case: upload competitor's video, see why theirs performs better — A/B test against the standard prompt.
- Avoid: Ebooks. Matteo on call: "Ebooks is not something that I would try."
- Possible alt to test: photo-to-video repurposing pack (parallel to the BigVu listing-to-video that worked for real estate). For healthcare, e.g., 'new facility photo set → video.'

9. Sales Process & Conversion

Stage	Owner	Goal
Lead reply	Alina (sell-by-chat / Dan Martell)	Qualify reply, book Ryder
Discovery + demo	Ryder (90% of new business) or Dave	Doctor Frame: pain in, prescription out
Proposal + close	Ryder	Standardized template, pain-first then pricing
Onboarding handoff	Lui or Jess	First deliverable inside 7 days, brand kit captured
Expansion	Lui / Jess	Pitch volume increase at month 3 and month 6

Top 3 objections (rehearse responses)

- “We already have freelancers / in-house editor.” — Reframe as relief valve, not replacement: “Keep your in-house editor for the strategic stuff. Use us for the volume that’s drowning them.”
- “Your pricing seems high for editing.” — Reframe against total cost. Freelancer at $30/hr = $0 when they ghost, $5K when launch slips. In-house = $80–$120K loaded. Viral = $1,500–$5,000/mo for a whole production system.
- “How do we know quality will be consistent?” — Show the system: QA checkpoints, managing editor structure, vertical case studies. Offer paid trial / no-risk first edit. Drop named logos in their environment.

CRM & reporting

- CRM: GoHighLevel (just migrated from HubSpot this week).
- Outbound source: EmailBison. Replies route to Alina.
- Cadence: monthly working session with Outreach Magic. Quarterly L10 review feeds reply intelligence into copy, paid ads, and organic content.

10. Tech Stack & Outreach Infrastructure

Tool	Purpose	Rule
EmailBison	Cold email send + sequencing	Per-client workspace. Always create campaigns PAUSED.
Heyreach	LinkedIn parallel touch on prioritized accounts	2–3 LinkedIn profiles (Dave + Ale + Ryder).
Apollo + Sales Nav	Account list build	Tag verticals at source; never mix with another client.
BlitzAPI	Email finding (priority 1)	x-api-key header; never Bearer.
Debounce	Email validation (priority 2)	Stop sending if no credits.
FindyMail	Email finding (priority 3)	Email-find only; never enrichment.
LeadMagic	Email finding + validation (priority 4)	Email-find only.
BounceBan	Final bounce filter (priority 5)	Never skip. Bounce ceiling 3%.
Supabase	Central leads table	Project tcyblrzlgdmffkwremqs. Client isolation every query.
Gemini 2.5 Flash	Per-lead copy (~$2–3 per 400 leads)	Never Claude for bulk copy.
Validator	validate_variables.py pre-flight	Hard-fail brackets, empty PS_LINE, spam words, signatures.

Viral's own stack: GoHighLevel CRM (migrated from HubSpot), ClickUp project management, Video Grader at video-grader.viralideamarketing.com (built in-house). Cold email tested historically on Instantly with minimal results — replaced by EmailBison.

11. Goals, Metrics & Phase Plan

Horizon	Target
12-month revenue	$5M ARR (close $2.6M gap from $2.4M pace)
24-month revenue	$10M ARR
Outbound appointments / month	175–200 (current ~3 calls/day, capacity ~12/day)
Sales utilization	Fill the 75% capacity gap
Target CAC	$400 (currently ~$800–$1,000)
First-meeting close rate	30%+ (currently ~20%)
Bounce-rate ceiling	<3% on every send

First-90-day phase plan (vertical-ordered)

Weeks 1–2 — foundation

GTM playbook complete. EmailBison workspace provisioned. Sending domains warmed (Zapmail). Healthcare list built (~2,500 contacts). Outcome metrics per vertical pulled from Dave.

Weeks 3–4 — campaign 1: HEALTHCARE

Healthcare/pharma in test batch (50 leads). Copy approved by Dave. Iterate on subject + Email 1 hook. Reply intelligence loop with Alina starts.

Weeks 5–6 — campaign 2: AGENCIES

Specialty-agency campaign live (performance / PPC / paid social). Reuse healthcare hooks where they map; Email 1 rewritten for white-label-trust angle. Daniel persona is the headline.

Weeks 7–8 — scale healthcare

Healthcare moves to full volume after iteration. Begin signal-based campaigns (new-CMO, hiring-video-editor, trade-show attendance).

Weeks 9–12 — campaign 3: FINTECH

Fintech campaign live (Self Financial / Asset Map / Insight Cloud anchors). All three priority verticals running. First L10 review feeds reply intelligence into messaging, paid ads, organic.

Reporting cadence

- Weekly: per-vertical reply rate, positive replies, bounces, meetings booked.
- Monthly: working session with Dave + Ale — reply intelligence into messaging, paid ads, organic.
- Quarterly: L10 review — intelligence flows into the broader marketing function (BBM paid ads, LinkedIn organic, sales enablement).

12. Out-of-Scope & Open Questions

Recorded here so nothing slips between sessions.

Out of scope (call-decided)

- Law firms (legal risk + hard close).
- SaaS startups (here-today-gone-tomorrow risk).
- SaaS broadly (Matteo: “keep SAS off for now”).
- Hospitals (within healthcare).
- Ecommerce / DTC (park as wave 2).
- HVAC / home services (assessment typo, not a real vertical).
- Brand ambassadors, executive assistants, finance, accounting (titles).
- McKesson- or J&J-level CEOs (out of reach + irrelevant to them).

Open questions for Dave

- 2–3 outcome metrics per priority vertical (campaign-1 proof points).
- Pricing transparency in cold body copy — comfortable with $1,500–$5,000/mo published, or price-discovery on first call?
- Healthcare sub-segment ranking: pharma vs biotech vs med device vs health tech — which sub-segment first?
- Confirmed list of in-scope agency archetypes (performance, PPC, paid social, video specialty) — any others to add?
- Fintech timing — week 5 or week 9?

Conflicts the call resolved

- Vertical order: Spreadsheet listed 6 verticals in detail. Call narrowed to 3 (healthcare, agencies, fintech) and explicitly dropped law firms + SaaS. Call wins.
- HVAC: Spreadsheet summary line listed it; nowhere else. Treat as superseded.
- Law firms: Spreadsheet had as #4. Call dropped (legal risk on cold email + hard close). Call wins.
- Hospitals: Not specifically excluded in spreadsheet. Call: Zach “I don't think we have hospitals.” Add to negative-signals list.
- Agency definition: Spreadsheet said mid-to-large agencies broadly. Call refined to specialty agencies that “do one thing really well.” Use the call's definition.
- Fintech: Spreadsheet folded into “SaaS / B2B” and “Professional services.” Call elevated fintech to its own #3 priority. Use call.
